BULBS IN THE GREEN

Available in units of 100

For those of you who know what Bulbs In the Green are, please see below the varieties we will be offering this year, along with images and prices.

If you don't know what Bulbs In the Green are, read on...

To put it simply, Bulbs In the Green are bulbs that were planted, have started growing and then are lifted out of the ground as they have foliage or are in bud. The reason we do this is because you will get a faster establishing plant and a higher chance of success with naturalising - this is down to the bulbs not drying out while they're out of the ground (don't leave them out of the ground for long, two or three days at the most), also the bulbs will be partway through their growing stages so when you plant them already 'In the Green' they will just pick up from where they left off and you will have a well established plant sooner.

All bulbs are from cultivated stock, including the true native Bluebell - Endymion non scriptus, which is grown in Norfolk and Lincolnshire. All bulbs are lifted fresh from the ground and then carefully placed into bags, still in their soil, and sent out to you.
